INDEX
TO REVIEW
Volume XXVII

Number 1, Winter 2004, 1–92
Number 2, Spring 2004, 93–180
Number 3, Summer 2004, 181–272
Number 4, Fall 2004, 273–376

Martin Aust	Rossia Siberica: Russian-Siberian History Compared to Medieval Conquest and Modern Colonialism	181–205
Amiya Kumar Bagchi	The Axial Ages of the Capitalist World-System	93–134
Ferruccio Brugnaro	A Poem: All Acquitted in Trial Over Petrochemical Dead	365
Hartmut Elsenhans	On the Development of World-Systems Studies	1–35
Marina Fischer-Kowalski, Fridolin Krausmann & Barbara Smetschka	Modeling Scenarios of Transport Across History from a Socio-Metabolic Perspective	307–42
Andrea Komlosy	State, Regions, and Borders: Single Market Formation and Labor Migration in the Habsburg Monarchy, 1750–1918	135–77
J. R. McNeill	Yellow Jack and Geopolitics: Environment, Epidemics, and the Struggles for Empire in the American Tropics, 1640–1830	343–64
Hans-Heinrich Nolte	The Modern World-System and Area Studies: The Case of Russia	207–42
Steven Sherman	Culture and the Global Emancipatory Project	61–85

Eva-Maria Stolberg	The Siberian Frontier and Russia's Position in World History: A Reply to Aust and Nolte	243–67
Peter J. Taylor	Homo Geographicus: A Geohistorical Manifesto for Cities	37–60
Immanuel Wallerstein	The Ecology and the Economy: What is Rational?	273–83
Richard Wilk	The Extractive Economy: An Early Phase of the Globalization of Diet	285–306